GREETED WITH IRISH TUNE

Notorious Author of "Jackass" Speech Hurries to Get on Denby's Carpet.

By United Press Leased Wire
New York—Admiral William S. Sims came home Wednesday to the tune of the "Wearing of the Green." As the liner Olympic swung into her pier with the admiral aboard, a little steamer slipped past her stern down the North river with a band lustily blowing that famous Irish air.

The expected demonstration of the White Star pier by Irish sympathizers who intended to show their disapproval of the admiral's "jackass" speech in London, failed to materialize—partly because of the presence of a thousand policemen and partly because of the expedition with which Sims was whisked to a hotel in an auto.

Sims was the first passenger down the gangplank, he and Mrs. Sims stepping ashore at 10:15 a. m. They were greeted by Rear-Admiral Harry P. Hughes of the Third naval district and an aide.

Are Whisked Away
They were hurried into a waiting limousine which instantly dashed from the pier and through the police guarded streets to a hotel.

Before the thousands in the waterfront district realized that Sims had arrived, he had disappeared.

The admiral, who refused absolutely to discuss his London speech which resulted in his recall, said he expected to see Secretary Denby in Washington Thursday to make official report demanded by the latter. He will leave for the capital this afternoon.

The police cordoned kept all traffic and the public three blocks from the pier where Sims landed. As a result, the reception committee to the admiral consisted almost entirely of policemen, reporters and camera men.

While the Olympic was still anchored at quarantine, the admiral was officially greeted by his aide, Commander H. M. Lamunier who went down the bay in a cutter.

Sims attired in civilian clothes and wearing a soft straw hat, received reporters and photographers on the upper deck.

"I have nothing to say until I report to Secretary Denby," was his sole statement and no amount of questioning could elicit anything additional.

Sims left for Washington on the Pennsylvania railroad at 11 a. m.

PRESIDENT MAY BE GIVEN ASSISTANT

Reorganization Committee Considers Easing Burden for Chief Executive.

Washington—Proposals to create a virtual assistant to the president of the United States are under serious consideration by the joint committee on reorganization. It was learned Wednesday. This officer probably would be called an "executive secretary."

He would make thousands of decisions of importance which now overburden the president, leaving the chief executive free to devote himself to the affairs of the government.

The president would still have his provisional secretary, the position now held by George Christian, Jr., who would make engagements, meet visitors and be at the president's right hand at all times.

The executive secretary would be delegated to keep in touch with the twenty-eight executive bodies of the federal government and supervise their work on behalf of the president.

CHURCHMEN START DRIVE FOR WORLD DISARMAMENT

Washington—A drive for prompt action on naval disarmament was launched Wednesday by all the leading religious denominations.

SANCTION LAWSUIT AGAINST ILLINOIS

Madison—Authorization for a supreme court suit against the state of Illinois by the state of Wisconsin in an attempt to have the Chicago drainage canal opened to river traffic, was granted to Attorney General William J. Morgan by the senate Wednesday.

The authorizing resolution, offered by Senator Wenden of Ashland, was passed without a roll call.

Litigation will now be taken directly to the United States supreme court which is the only body having jurisdiction over national waterways.

The lower house, after refusing authorization Tuesday, 40 to 39, Wednesday passed by a large vote, a motion for reconsideration of the vote.

VALUE TAXATION ON AUTOMOBILES COMES UP AGAIN

Legislature Wants Automobile
Owners to Pay for Road
Improvements.

By United Press Leased Wire
Madison—The 2 per cent. ad valorem automobile tax bill was revived in the assembly Wednesday.

The measure, which was rejected by the lower house Friday, was amended in two out of sixteen attempts Wednesday.

One amendment prohibits the paying of any increased salaries, and virtually means the retirement of Chief Highway Engineer A. R. Hirst, it is said.

The other returns to the city of Milwaukee all revenue from trucks in that county.

Passage of this measure on final reading which probably will follow closely Wednesday's endorsement, and concurrence of the senate in the assembly amendments will mean the acceptance of the state financial program as outlined by the legislative financial committee. This program proposed to remove real property and income tax levies by keeping expenditures for the next biennium to a low mark and pay for highways by this ad valorem tax.

The senate killed the Dennhardt farm drainage bill Wednesday by a vote of 13 to 8 without discussion.

Senator Conant's measure providing for a state appropriation to meet government aid to workers physically disabled, was passed.

An assembly bill to regulate the marketing and distribution of dairy products in cities was killed.

The senators stripped the northern lakes park measure of all amendments, leaving the money to be provided for out of the general fund.

Establishment by League of Nations Is Only Drawback to Plan.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1921, by Post Pub. Co.

Washington—The United States government looks with friendly eyes on the establishment of the world court of international justice, even though that body has been created by the League of Nations. The Harding administration fearful of the wrath of the "irreconcilables" will not openly lend its influence to the establishment of the court but the council of the League of Nations has prudently saved the Washington government much embarrassment by addressing its invitation to Elihu Root, Judge Gray of Delaware and Oscar Straus who are the permanent American members of The Hague Tribunal without committing the Harding administration in any way to submit its assent to the jurisdiction of the new court in making the constitution of which Mr. Root played so important a part, the invitation to nominate judges for the court will be accepted.

The department of state has made it clear that the United States government is watching with considerable interest the development of the court and while the fact that the court was made possible by the league is recognized no comment is made upon America's future relationship to it.

Officials of the Harding administration admit that the traditional difficulties of the selection of judges and that many an excellent project during the last century has been wrecked because it was never possible to satisfy all the parties concerned on the naming of judges. The small nations always refused to be subordinated and the large powers declined to see the court made up of representatives of small countries. The solution came when the council and the assembly of the League of Nations actually made such a separation. The nations, large and small, have become accustomed since the peace conference to the upper and lower house, so to speak, of the League of Nations, and now while nominations are made by the council, they must be ratified by the assembly.

Once the judges are named the international court has really nothing more to do with the League of Nations. It is absolutely separated from any political organization and is intended to be a supreme court of the world making its decisions irrespective of national interests and only for the common good based upon right principles of law. The belief is growing that once the court is on its feet and a going concern, the Harding administration will not hesitate to submit disputes to that body. It will be difficult for America to refuse to do so if any dispute should arise with some member of the League of Nations which wants to let the international court decide the question at issue.

The Republican party has again and again pledged itself to help make an international court and although the covenant of the League of Nations provided for the creation of such a tribunal there were many speeches of criticism made when the peace covenant and treaty were made public and it was found that the international court was left to the future. It was partly as a result of that criticism and partly because of the desire of foreign governments to get the court started that the proponents of the plan decided not to wait for American ratification of the peace treaty but to invite Elihu Root as a private citizen and distinguished statesman to frame a constitution for the new court. Mr. Root spent most of last summer in Europe working on the plan which is now bearing fruit. It was while Mr. Root was in London that he called Mr. Harding that it would be unwise to pronounce the League of Nations "dead" for it was already proving its usefulness in making the international court a reality after years of futile effort in that direction. Mr. Harding, however, being unfamiliar with what

GOMPERS' FOE WANTS U. S. TO RUN RAILROADS

Labor Federation Votes Down
Effort to Boycott British Made Goods.

By United Press Leased Wire
Denver, Colo.—John L. Lewis made a bid here Wednesday for support of his candidacy for the presidency of the American Federation of Labor on the floor of the convention.

He spoke in favor of a resolution demanding that definite steps be taken to obtain government ownership and control of railroads and all other basic industries. His address favored the stand of the railroad unions whose support he is attempting to obtain in his campaign.

The resolutions committee had presented to the convention a divided report on the question of government ownership. The majority report was more general in tone along lines advocated by packers of Samuel Gompers for president.

Lewis spoke in favor of the minority report.

He held of the efforts of the coal miners' union to obtain nationalization of mines. He demanded that the federation carry on a strenuous campaign for government ownership of railroads, through cooperation with the recognized railroad unions as advocated in the minority resolution.

Irish Friends Lose
Efforts of Irish sympathizers to place the federation on record favoring a boycott of British goods failed Wednesday.

The convention adopted a resolution urging congress to recognize "the rights of Ireland," and expressing sympathy of labor toward the struggle of the Irish people.

The radical Irish adherents did not give up their fight to obtain a boycott declaration until every parliamentary trick in the bag had been used.

Those favoring a boycott were overwhelmingly outvoted on every test.

The convention unanimously adopted a resolution calling for amendment of the Volstead law to allow sale of "wholesome beer."

NO "MASTER MINDS" AMONG CRIMINALS

By United Press Leased Wire
Milwaukee—Criminals with "master minds" don't exist except in fiction.

Even the most successful criminals in the country are of low intelligence, according to Dr. George W. Kirchwey, New York criminologist and former warden of Sing Sing prison.

"I have met and talked with many of the most successful criminals in the country," said Dr. Kirchwey, "but I never found one with a 'master mind.' Master minds don't go to crime. They can get rich without ever stepping the line. Most criminals are below normal mentality. The very best are of low intelligence."

There is no fascination about a life of crime, Dr. Kirchwey said. Burglars never pull off a "job" until they are sure they can get away with it. Dr. Kirchwey is here to attend the National Conference of Social Work.

SHOT ZIEGLER TO SAVE OWN LIFE, MRS. ORTHWEIN SAYS

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago—Mrs. Cora Orthwein told the jury Wednesday why she shot and killed Herbert P. Ziegler.

The divorcee resumed the stand in her own defense to free herself of the charge of murder.

"Bert was in a drunken frenzy," she said.

"That is the reason I left him at the cabaret where he had thrown a glass of water in my face."

"I above all persons knew Herb when he was crazed with liquor. He had beaten me many times when he was in that condition. During those times he was not the man I loved—he was a beast."

"On that night he battered down my door. I knew he had come to kill me. He had threatened me many times."

"He lunged toward me—I yelled. He kept coming. He struck me. I saw the very devil in his eyes—so I reached for a gun and shot him to save myself."

Trammen said the machine was driven directly in the path of the train despite warning signals.

TERRIFIC GALE SWEEPING OVER COAST OF TEXAS

Wind and Rain Imperils Cities on Gulf Coast—Shipping
in Danger.

By United Press Leased Wire
Houston, Tex.—The heaviest part of the gulf stream gale is about to hurl itself into Galveston, according to barometer readings here late Wednesday. The barometer was steadily falling which indicated the worst of the storm was nearing.

It was reported that the gale of a width of 200 miles, was howling land ward and likely to strike somewhere between Corpus Christi and Orange.

Wind velocity in Port Arthur, Bay City, Victoria, Galveston and Houston stood at 30 to 40 miles an hour.

The gale swept the Padre and Brazos islands, off shore, and hundreds of vacationists fled to the mainland for safety.

Flood warnings were given to people who live in the lowlands of Galveston, where the United States weather service reported a six foot rise in the tide.

The city is nine feet above the low tide level and no extra precautions were taken with the sea wall proper.

Water however, falling in sheets, drenched the island city.

Many ships, off the gulf coast, were at the mercy of the battering winds, it was feared.

Shipping in Danger

Galveston, Texas—The oil tanker William H. Doherty was at the mercy of a heavy sea gale Wednesday. An S O S from Captain Locke was picked up at the radio station here.

The appeal said:

"Blowing easterly gale, high sea running from east. Have lost power 34 miles west of Galveston. Drifting westward. Heavy winds at sea. Need help at once."

The ship is a 10,000 ton vessel and belongs to the Mexican Petroleum corporation.

The tornado will have a velocity of 90 miles an hour and will hit Galveston late this afternoon, according to the weather bureau.

Inhabitants of this and other coast cities are seeking refuge in their cellars.

NEW RENT CONTROL BILL IS DRAFTED

By United Press Leased Wire
Madison—A new state rent bill, to replace the one declared unconstitutional Tuesday by the state supreme court, was introduced in the Wisconsin assembly here Wednesday.

Assemblyman M. M. Higgins, of Milwaukee, is sponsor for the new bill which includes all Wisconsin cities in its scope.

The former rent regulation bill, passed last summer, by Governor Phelan's special session, applied only to Milwaukee. The measure was referred to the committee on revision and will be sent to the rules committee before it comes before the assembly.

PEGGY DOESN'T HAVE TO SHOW HERSELF IN COURT

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago—Peggy Joyce, show girl, won the first skirmish in the alimony battle with her husband Wednesday when it was ruled she did not have to appear in court to present her plea.

Attorneys for J. Stanley Joyce, her third millionaire husband, requested Judge Joseph Sabath to hale Peggy into court to tell why she needed $10,000 a month alimony and $100,000 lawyers' fees. Judge Sabath ruled Wednesday it was not necessary for her to appear.

"Without deciding any questions involved in this case, it is not necessary for Mrs. Joyce to appear at this time," ruled the judge.

"In cases of requests for temporary alimony, it is unusual for the person making the demand to come into court."

The judge announced he would make a ruling on the alimony coming to Peggy on June 29.

Peggy is now in New York.

WANT U. S. BUREAU TO LOCATE MISSING

By United Press Leased Wire
Milwaukee—A bureau for "missing persons" to be established by the federal government was advocated Wednesday by delegates attending the International Association of Police Women, meeting here.

The organization went on record as favoring the establishment of a federal identification bureau at Washington for the purpose of locating missing persons.

Finger prints and measurements, similar to the system used for the identification of criminals is wanted.

"We could restore to their homes hundreds of missing girls," Mrs. Mina C. Van Winkle, lieutenant of the metropolitan police department at Washington D. C., said.

Police women also want state laws changed to allow custody by police of vagrants—especially girls—longer time than 48 hours.

Delegates said 48 hours was too short a time to locate relatives of the girls and send them back home.

FINDS DYNAMITE IN HOUSE; CALLS POLICE

St. Paul—A maid who heard a noise in the kitchen of a Summit avenue rooming house here early Wednesday, investigated and found a stick of dynamite in the icebox with a burning fuse attached.

Afraid to touch the explosive she called police. John Allen, motorcycle patrolman, arrived and found only an inch of fuse left.

He threw the dynamite into the street. It exploded immediately and tore a hole in the pavement.

"I pray that my coming to Ireland is the first step toward peace."

Airplanes Will Be Used to Locate Hiding Places of Sea Robbers.

SINN FEINERS SUSPECTED

Britain Fears Irish Rebels May Have Seized Ships to Carry Guns.

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington—Efforts to solve the mystery of the "vanishing ships" Wednesday were centered on efforts to find the sea marauders who are believed to have boarded the schooner Carroll A. Deering and made prisoners of her crew.

Commerce officials want to know what vessel followed the Deering past the cape lookout lightship on the night of Jan. 23 and refused to answer signals from the lightship. This was only two days before the Deering drifted ashore with all sails set and only a parrot on board.

To learn, if possible, the identity of the mysterious ship, the department has asked all ships that were near Cape Hatteras between Jan. 20 and Feb. 1, last, to report their position.

A note signed with the name of the mate of the Deering and found in a bottle also may furnish a clue. The note said that the Deering had been captured by an "oil burning chaser."

The attempt to locate ships together with a combing of the coast near Hatteras constitute the active steps now being taken by the commerce department.

Sinn Fein Suspected

Airplanes may be used to search the coast if the report is true. It is now doing the work of the navy.

An expedition of two fast Deering will furnish a clue to the disappearance of a half dozen other vessels at the same spot where the Deering was wrecked.

The reason for the interests of British officials in the search for the vanishing ships was revealed Wednesday. Then theory is that the ships may have been captured by Irish sympathizers and used for gun running.

If the pirates raided the ships and murdered the crews, the navy as some officials believe, they must have left some trace along the shore. The disappearances extend over several months and a raiding vessel would have to have some base for operations along the shore.

A list of twenty vessels which have disappeared in the last few months was made up in the commerce department Wednesday.

Nothing Is Found

Five of the vessels or possibly six, were near Cape Hatteras when they were down. While the number of vessels which have vanished is not unusual the fact that no trace has been found of them and that so many were last heard from near the same spot, is unusual. If they had blown up, ran aground or even capsized some bit of wreckage would float ashore which would explain their fate.

Not an hour not a bit of driftwood from the other vessels which have joined the phantom squadron of the deep was discovered. These ships are the Russian Bark Albyn that sailed out of the Norfolk coast into oblivion, the Spanish steamer Yuta, that wireless for help while north of Cape Hatteras and when nearby vessels rushed to the location given, they found nothing but the ocean; the American steamer Hewitt, that vanished off the cape about the time the Deering drifted ashore, and the William O'Brien which disappeared north of the cape.

On the theory that if any of the men are still alive they will return to their old haunts, detectives have looked up every address given in the ship's articles of two of the missing vessels.

Another Boat Missing

Washington—The naval ocean going tug Conestoga, missing since March 25, 1921, was officially given up for lost by naval authorities Wednesday.

Secretary Denby ordered the publication of the names of the 54 officers and men who were aboard.

MISSING SHIPS

Washington—The following ships have been listed as "missing" since January 1, according to the department of commerce:

Steamers
Tanzan Maru, Japanese, left Montevideo for Antwerp May 10.

Yuta, Spanish, left Baltimore for Dunkirk, Nov. 14, (1920). Sent wireless call for aid 200 miles off New Jersey coast.

MERCHANTS SEEK DESIRABLE SITE FOR SALE PAVILION

Community Building and Fair Grounds Discussed by C.
of C. Committee.

It is probable that Outagamie-co. will have a larger stock market fair grounds in Appleton than the present location, and that a community building of a type not found anywhere in the United States will be erected to accommodate all agricultural events as well as serve the people of the county for a meeting place and rest room. Plans for such a project are only tentative, depending largely on the ability to secure the desired location.

This was the chief topic under consideration at a meeting of the retail merchant division of the chamber of commerce Tuesday morning in the chamber of commerce rooms. The merchants believe the present grounds are too small, especially if a sales building is to be built. Two or three locations were mentioned, but none met all requirements.

Suggestions are sought from the public as to the place where the market may be established. The site should be convenient to the retail section of Appleton and also near the railroad. A large open area is wanted where a picnic center may be established in addition to the building and market space. Persons having ideas on the subject are asked to communicate with the chamber of commerce.

Building of Many Uses

It is believed that any building placed on the grounds should be equipped for more uses than that of sales of pumbed stock, such as have been conducted here. It should also be a place where poultry and other agricultural shows may be held, where picnics may be accommodated indoors in case of rain; and where shoppers from the rural sections may find rest rooms, a place to spread their lunch, and eat it, a checkroom for parcels, and other facilities for comfort and convenience. A large canopy is proposed so wagons or automobiles may drive to a sheltered place and dispose of farm produce without unloading it into a building. Many other features would be incorporated to carry out the purpose of the merchants to provide a building for every possible use. The matter is to be taken up further at subsequent meetings. The project may take a year to consummate, as committees are making a thorough study of the local situation as well as obtaining data from rural sales centers in all parts of the United States.

Report of a committee was read concerning a conference with George T. Prim, chief of police, relative to greater public safety on Appleton streets. Suggestions of the chief were sought concerning an educational campaign to teach drivers to be cautious, as well as to teach the pedestrian how to avoid danger and to know what his rights are.

Prompt Closing

Closing of stores at 9:30 Saturday evenings was discussed quite thoroughly. A resolution was adopted by which all stores of the division agree to close promptly at that hour. Some merchants had been lax in adhering to the understanding, it was said, and full cooperation therefore was sought. It was agreed that the merchants would adhere to a policy adopted by the directors that the chamber of commerce as a body would not arrange a celebration for Independence day. Neenah representatives informed the chamber sometime ago of a homecoming to be held there on the holiday and were assured that nothing would be done here to conflict. This action has nothing to do with plans of individuals for the day, however.

Full cooperation of all Appleton retailers was promised the grocers when the state convention of the Wisconsin Retail Grocers association is held here in August.

"Seahorse" Is Popular With Kid Swimmers

There's a strange seahorse down at the municipal swimming pool.

Although it's only an empty cask to which are attached a carved and painted wooden head and wooden tail, the children get much delight from it. Beginners find it a great help in learning the strokes and the little chaps think it's the cleverest kind of hobby because it can ride the waves and everything.

The horse was the gift of Dr. E. T. Farrand who acted as caretaker of the pool the first two weeks of the season. Willis Wood, the regular caretaker, did not return from the university until June 17, but Dr. Farrand agreed to take charge in order that the pool could be opened June 3.

Besides the horse, Dr. Farrand purchased ten bathing suits and these he furnished to children who did not have suits of their own.

INTEREST GROWING IN CITY PLANNING

Fifth Warders to Hear First of Series of Addresses on City Plan.

Community planning is becoming a leading topic of discussion among Appleton citizens since it was announced that Leonard S. Smith, community planner of the University of Wisconsin, was coming here for a series of talks in the residence sections on this subject. His first address will be made at 8 o'clock Friday evening in Washington school, and a second in Third ward school Saturday evening.

Mr. Smith believes Appleton is at a point now where its future development should not be permitted to fall to chance. He believes there should be a definite plan for growth so the beauty and continuity of residence sections should be maintained and business establishments be placed to their own advantage and not to the disadvantage of the people. He believes the river banks, hills and ravines should be made garden spots. There should be program of park development, he says, and much consideration should be given to the arrangements of its business section with a view to appearance and convenience and safety of traffic. Its public buildings of the future should be placed correctly for the years to come.

It is Appleton of perhaps ten years from now that he will portray in his talk and pictures. His manner of speech is simple and direct, and pictures taken here after a study of the community will aptly illustrate what he has to say.

Miss Reinert gave a splendid talk, telling the girls what the Neenah club has accomplished since its organization. Miss Ethel Troy, who is the Y. W. C. A. executive for the cherry picking camp at Sturgeon Bay, told about the plans for the camp for this season. She said that Appleton will be allowed to send 20 girls to "Cherry Ripe" camp.

Miss Ruth Smith of Lawrence Conservatory of Music gave a reading, "Miss Butterworth" taken from "Sevenoaks." Plans were discussed for one or two summer picnics. Songs and stunts concluded the entertainment.

MERCHANTS HERE DISLIKE MIDDLE OF WEEK HOLIDAY

Grocers Want Wednesday Afternoon Off While Majority of Others Want to Work.

Closing of stores Wednesday afternoon during the months of July and August is not generally favored by Appleton merchants aside from grocers, who agitated the movement two years ago and who still favor it. Of those interviewed the majority were not in favor of breaking up the middle of the week with a half holiday.

One merchant suggested the public would be better accommodated if the banks and stores would close Wednesday afternoons and keep open Saturday afternoons as it would do away to a great extent with the cashing of checks for employees of mills. Another merchant was in favor of closing each afternoon during summer months instead of closing one entire afternoon.

The merchants were quite generally of the opinion that present working hours even during the heated period of summer were not overburdensome to either the employee or employer. One thought it was useless to endeavor to shorten the hours of work when the present closing agreement is not lived up to by some and is broken at will.

"I am in favor of closing Wednesday afternoons during July and August," said A. J. Herrmann, "and will close any time I figure we are entitled to all the recreation we can get. If one store closes, however, we all ought to close. It is easier for merchants in other lines to close than it is for grocers as about two-thirds of them handle ice cream in connection with groceries."

Druggist Opposes.

"I am not in favor of closing Wednesday afternoons," said E. A. Schmalz of Downer's Pharmacy, "for the reason in the drug business we have to accommodate the public especially in emergency cases. A person might have a prescription to fill or a physician might want supplies and it is our duty to be on the job and see that they get them. It would not be good policy for the drug stores to close. In other words, we are here to serve the public in an emergency."

Carl Schuetter, tailor, was in favor of closing for the reason 100 years from now it would make no difference and everyone would have the satisfaction of knowing he got the most out of life while on earth.

A. A. Wettengel of the Schlafer Hardware Co. said he supposed it would make no difference if the stores all closed. It might work a hardship to country patrons and to mail trade of the store until it became generally known the store was closed those afternoons.

Close Saturday Afternoon.

J. C. Ryan preferred to have Saturday afternoon off. He said the banks and many of the mills were closed then but did not believe it was good policy to break into the middle of the week with a half holiday.

John F. Behnke of the Behnke-Jones Co., clothiers, was opposed to the half holiday for the reason merchants are supposed to serve the public which is entitled to the best service that can be rendered. As it is now there is only one evening a week that farmers can do their shopping.

Miss Minnie Geenen, president of Geenen Drygoods Co. said her company would act in accordance with the majority of stores, but said she was not prepared to say off hand whether the policy of breaking into the middle of the week was a good one.

Herman F. Heckert of the Heckert Shoe Co., also was opposed to the mid-week half holiday, but was in favor of closing at 6 o'clock Saturday evening. He said many people want to do their shopping then, when it is impossible to give them the service they are entitled to just as they waited years ago until Sunday morning to buy their furnishings when the clothing stores were open.

Hard on Workingman.

David Brettschneider of the Brettschneider Furniture, said it would be a mistake in many ways to close Wednesday afternoons, especially if the day fell on a payday as the mill men would then have to wait until the following day to get their checks cashed which might cause great inconvenience to many.

Joseph E. Schweitzer of Schweitzer & Langenberg, shoe dealers, was opposed to the proposed half holiday for the reason he did not believe it would be strictly observed. He charged that some merchants take advantage of the slight excuse to violate the present early closing agreement and considered it a waste of time to attempt to make any further reductions of working hours.

H. A. Kamps, jeweler, was also opposed to the half holiday, as he claimed it would break up the week. He was also opposed to it for the reason that many country patrons would not know the stores were closed until they reached town.

C. E. CONVENTION HAS BIG PROGRAM

F. J. Harwood Will Be Toastmaster at Fellowship Supper Saturday.

Menasha and Neenah churches have completed preparations for the fortieth anniversary convention of the Wisconsin Christian Endeavor Union and are ready for the arrival of more than 400 delegates Thursday. The program just issued indicates four days with continuous sessions. An afternoon outing on Saturday is the only period for recreation.

Thursday evening's opening session will be held in Neenah Presbyterian church. The Rev. Ernest North, Madison, will be song leader. The Rev. S. C. Ruegg, pastor of Menasha Congregational church and convention chairman, will welcome the delegates. Allison A. Alexander, Milwaukee, state president, will give the response. Orchestra selections will be played by a group of C. E. players from Lake Geneva.

The address of the evening will be given by Dr. Ira Landrith, Boston. Dr. Landrith is one of the noted speakers and publicists of the country, and has spoken in this locality several times. He was candidate for president of the United States on the prohibition ticket at one time because of his ardent fight to carry out Christian Endeavor's motto, "A Saloonless nation by 1920."

Harwood is Toastmaster. Convention classes will be held Friday and Saturday mornings to take up problems of each distinct division of the work. Denominational rallies will be held Friday afternoon. Dr. W. A. Ganfield, Danville, Ky., formerly of Carroll college, Waukesha, is to speak Friday evening. Dr. Daniel A. Poling, New York, associate president of World-wide Christian Endeavor on Saturday evening, and Rabbi Samuel Hirschberg, Milwaukee, Sunday evening.

F. J. Harwood of this city, who was first president of the Wisconsin C. E. union, is to be toastmaster at a fellowship dinner at 5:15 Saturday evening. Graduation certificates will be presented to a class of young people who completed the Endeavor expert course after which Dr. Poling will speak.

Joseph E. Schweitzer of Schweitzer & Langenberg, shoe dealers, was opposed to the proposed half holiday for the reason he did not believe it would be strictly observed. He charged that some merchants take advantage of the slight excuse to violate the present early closing agreement and considered it a waste of time to attempt to make any further reductions of working hours.

H. A. Kamps, jeweler, was also opposed to the half holiday, as he claimed it would break up the week. He was also opposed to it for the reason that many country patrons would not know the stores were closed until they reached town.

Men Complain But Women Fight, City Sealer Says

Short Weight Due to Carelessness, Not Dishonesty, Investigations Show.

Women are more game than men. Most people aren't crooked, they're simply careless.

People who allow themselves to be fleeced with their eyes open deserve scant sympathy. These are a few of the observations Joseph A. Hodgins, city sealer of weights and measures, has made during the three years he has been in office.

To begin with, he gives great credit to the women. And Mr. Hodgins is a bachelor, too. He has found that women remain true to their convictions and play the game straight through. Men, he has learned, are often inclined to be neutral rather than take a positive stand in any controversy.

He tells the story of a man who attracted a great deal of attention on the street one day by loudly condemning a butcher whom he charged with giving short weight. Mr. Hodgins went up to the excited one and offered to take the matter up with the butcher or if it was found that the package of meat the man had bought was under weight. The alarmist immediately closed up like a trap and waved the official away. "The butcher's a good pal of mine. I don't want to start any trouble even if he did skim me a little on this."

Not so with Woman

On the other hand a woman came to the sealer's office one day and charged a grocer with giving her short weight in coffee. Mr. Hodgins weighed the package which was supposed to weigh a pound and found it weighed only 12 ounces. He asked the woman if she would accompany him to the grocer to see about the matter. The woman readily agreed, saying that when she ordered a pound of coffee she wanted a pound.

The official put the matter squarely up to the grocer who explained that he had only 12 ounces of that particular brand of coffee left and he produced the bill showing that he had charged the woman for 12 ounces only. He said he had forgotten to tell her about the item before he left the store.

"Men will complain," Mr. Hodgins said, "but they won't back up their complaints. I have always found that women are always ready to stand by any complaint they make."

Blames Carelessness

In almost every instance Mr. Hodgins has found that short weights are the result of faulty scales. "People are apt to be more careless than crooked," said Mr. Hodgins. "Do you think for a minute that a dealer who really intends to be crooked will tolerate in accurate scales in his store? No sir. If a dealer really intends to skin anybody he's going to see that those scales weigh exactly so he'll know just how much he's skimming each customer. If he wasn't certain the scales were right he'd be afraid he was beating himself."

"Where short weights have been given, I have generally found it due to inaccurate scales which were carelessly allowed to get out of adjustment. There was no evidence that the dealer had really intended to cheat any one. Of course it's my business as city sealer to see that dealers do keep their scales properly adjusted and for that reason I test scales frequently."

High Cliff Program

A picnic and dance will be held at High Cliff park next Sunday and also on Sunday and Monday, July 3 and 4. Excellent music will be provided.

chants mistrusted me when I stepped into their stores. In fact, at first I mistrusted myself. I thought that by going into a man's store and weighing his packages I was virtually accusing him of being a thief. Well that isn't so and Appleton merchants have come to realize it. They actually welcome investigations by me.

Creates Confidence

"When I weigh their packages and stamp upon them the city seal of approval 'Correct weight,' I am really advertising their store. They know that it gives their customers confidence in the man they are dealing with when they see that stamp on the packages they buy."

"You know if I had my way, I'd vote in favor of doing away with every city sealer's office and have a county sealer instead. As it is, the city sealer does more than serve the city where he holds office. He has to serve the farmers from the surrounding country as well. Farmers come in to town and have grievances over alleged underweights either in buying or selling and they call on me to settle the disputes. Then a great many of the farmers bring their scales to me for testing."

"There are three methods of buying or selling," said Mr. Hodgins. "You can buy or sell by count, by volume or by weight. Count never varies, of course, neither does volume, but weight does. What is a bushel of apples in one state may not be a legal bushel in another. I find a lot of trouble is the direct result of people not knowing the legal weights in their own state. Here is a matter I have wondered about: A legal bushel measures 2150.42 cubic inches. In Wisconsin a bushel of apples must weigh 44 pounds. Suppose that you fill the legal measure with Wolf Rivers or some other light, bulky variety and it doesn't weigh 44 pounds. You have a legal bushel by volume but not by weight. If a case of this kind was taken to court how would the judge decide it?"

"When a person buys a box of berries or a basket of apples by legal measure, the container should be full. The ordinary person knows it should be full. Then why does he allow the dealer to tell him that it is full measure when the container is not full?"

Really, to be honest, I haven't much sympathy for the person who will be beaten with his eyes open. Violations of the law along this line should be reported to me and the person making the complaint should stand ready to back it up.

"If people don't want a city sealer they ought to get rid of him. On the other hand, if they believe a city sealer is for their protection they ought to lend him every cooperation."

WHOOPING COUGH PREVALENT HERE

Health Officers Wage Campaign to Prevent Spread of Children's Disease.

Whooping cough is prevalent among children of Appleton, and gained a foothold before the attention of the health department was called to it. George Merkel, assistant health officer, placarded five residences Tuesday morning.

Dr. H. E. Ellsworth, health officer, discovered a victim of the disease accidentally while passing through the city park. He saw a youngster playing with other children in the midst of a coughing spell and there was no question about the symptoms. Upon learning the boy's name he called at the home and found the disease had been in the family for several weeks and that no effort had been made to report it to the health department.

Upon making an investigation of the neighborhood, the health officer found several families afflicted. A strenuous effort is being made to prevent further spread of the disease.

Must Placard Homes

The law does not require a house to be quarantined but does require it to be placarded. The disease is to be reported to the health department within 24 hours after its appearance.

The law requires the isolation of the patient until after he stops whooping which is about six weeks. Children who have the whooping cough are not permitted to leave the premises and children, others than members of the family, are not to remain upon the premises while the home is placarded. Well children may go to school.

Convention at Oshkosh

A. G. Koch, register of deeds, has received announcement of the state convention of registers of deeds to be held in Oshkosh June 29, 30 and July 1. The program is being arranged by President George Hollands, Oshkosh. Special entertainment features are to be provided through funds provided by Oshkosh real estate men.

After the death or recovery of the patient the room has to be thoroughly disinfected before the placard is removed from the residence.

The city still has a few cases of scarlet fever with which the health department has been waging a battle for nearly a year, but the indications are the city will be free from the disease by July 1.

NEW YORK, BOSTON.FOR AN UNDERSTANDING WITH JAPAN

It is announced from Washington that conversations have been begun between Secretary of State Hughes and Baron Kijuro Shidehara, the Japanese Ambassador to the United States with a view to the settlement of all outstanding problems between the governments of Japan and this country, ranging from Yap and the Far east to the California situation. It is reported that these negotiations were opened by the Japanese government, which, if true, is of favorable significance. This is the proper way to approach a peaceful settlement of differences between Japan and the United States and to put their relations on a solid and friendly basis.

There is really no reason why these two nations should not be able to reach a solution of unsettled issues in a spirit of mutual accommodation and toleration, without the sacrifice of any vital national principles. Whether viewed from the standpoint of American aims or from the viewpoint of Japanese aspirations, there should be no conflict of interest which cannot be adjusted to square with the welfare and fundamental purposes of both nations. It is true that there are some questions which must be handled with tact and diplomacy, but they are not in any sense incapable of amicable settlement, and certainly they could not be made to justify war.

Every time there is a diplomatic exchange with Japan, public opinion flares up under the spur of an alarmist press and jingo politicians and prophesies the possibilities of war. Half the talk we hear about the inevitable conflict between Japan and the United States is invention pure and simple and does not rest on any foundations worthy of notice.

The way for the United States and Japan to get along harmoniously is to deal with each other openly and frankly, to lay the cards on the table and not to view differences in a spirit of suspicion and distrust. Japan has given us many assurances that she does not want war and that she contemplates no policies that will bring her into collision with the United States. It is our duty to take her at her word until such time as her acts offer proof to the contrary. We ought to proceed on the assumption that Japanese intentions toward us are friendly. The conversations now in progress may be expected to adjust controversies between the two governments satisfactorily. Mr. Hughes knows what he is doing and if he is given a free hand we have no doubt that he will bring about a full and complete understanding with Japan upon all pending questions.

HUGHES INTERPRETS AMERICAN IDEALS

It may or may not be significant that Secretary of State Hughes has followed the sensational address of Ambassador Harvey in London with a speech to his fellow-alumni of Brown university in Providence which accentuated American devotion to universal liberty. Secretary Hughes did not specifically repudiate Ambassador Harvey's statement that we embarked in the world war for self-protection, but he laid stress on our hatred of tyranny and our desire to preserve the institutions of freedom as the ally of democratic peoples. We engaged in war, said Mr. Hughes, with no imperialistic design or cunning purpose. Our men offered their lives because we "loved the institutions of liberty and intended to maintain them, because we hated tyranny and the brutality and ruthlessness which found expression in the worship of force."

Though we are practical, we are a nation of high ideals. We are a mercantile, but not a mercenary nation. We glory in our liberty, our justice and our tolerance, and our fondest hope is that all the people, of all climes, may enjoy the same freedom which affords us as individuals equality of happiness and opportunity. The brave men who fought under the Stars and Stripes on foreign soil were imbued with the noble and unselfish idea that they were living up to the highest American ideals and were preserving liberty for those who had it and gaining it for others who were slaves of autocracy.

Secretary Hughes struck the keynote of American international policy with his assertion that "the only method of diplomacy which we know is that of candid discussion of the merits of problems." and "we have no subtleties, no duplicity of meaning, no soft words to conceal a purpose of self-aggrandizement at others' expense." These were not Republican or Democratic declarations, but frank interpretations of thoroughly American ideals. They express the opinions which have been typically American since the foundation of the republic.

FOR BETTER CITY GOVERNMENT

The city manager is an innovation in municipal government. Ten years ago the experiment was just in its beginning. Dayton, Ohio, we think, was the only city in the country so governed. There may have been one or two others but they were not important. Today the number of cities operating under the city manager plan totals 223.

Cities have had mayors for centuries, and old ideas die hard. The city manager plan is the outgrowth of widespread popular dissatisfaction with the kind of municipal government that grew up in this country and made the administration of public affairs wasteful, inefficient, cumbersome and in many cases dishonest. The commission plan was devised in the hope of securing improvement and to put the conduct of city affairs on a business basis divorced from politics. On the whole, the commission government has brought about enormous betterment, but it has not corrected all of the ills from which the people suffer in local government.

The city manager represents another step forward over the commission form. There can be no question but what, if the city manager system is properly organized and the people enter into it with active interest, paying for the services of a manager a price that will command ability, the municipality will be far ahead in the long run and will have better government than it ever had before. The city manager plan is logically the best of all systems yet devised for local government. It is certain to grow in popularity because the whole tendency of American life is toward business efficiency, and the problems of municipal government are essentially no different than the problems of private business and large corporations.

It is only a question of time until the people demand 100 per cent efficiency in municipal government, and insofar as developments now indicate they will turn to competent city managers to secure it. We are of course here discussing the city manager plan in an academic sense and simply commending the idea. In actual practice it varies considerably in its application. A failure can be made of city managers the same as of private business managers. Much depends upon the salary paid, the authority conferred in the manager, and the safeguards with which he is surrounded and directed.

TODAY'S POEM
(By Edmund Vance Cooke)OF COURSE
By Bertone Brelay

I went to the beach where the city folks play—
The "haunt of the hot polloi" day after day.
From what I'd heard told by a bit of a snob,
I went out to meet at the "Commonplace mob."
But what I discovered was only a crowd,
A few of them vulgar, a few of them loud,
But most of them mortals whose ways didn't jar,
But made me exclaim, "What nice people they are!"

It's all in the way that you see them, I guess;
The snob picks the roughnecks and bums, more or less.
As "types of the multitude," therefore he raves,
"Just look how that lower class crowd misbehaves!"
But I see the average family bunch,
The mothers and fathers and children at lunch,
The lovers that stroll on the beach, near and far,
And somehow I say, "What nice people they are!"

The crowd's not so bad if you look at it right
Without silly prejudice warping your sight;
Though many vulgarisms lead to the view,
The bulk of the multitude is decent and true;
Just mortal human beings, striving for fame or for pelf,
Just plain human beings resembling yourself.
So don't let your snobishness act as a bar
To saying of crowds, "What nice people they are!"

What to Eat While on Vacation

We have received numerous requests from readers about to go to the country for a vacation, and they desire to know about how much milk and eggs one should eat in order to build up the strength and blood, or something like that.

This year there should be plenty of good, fresh vegetables and fruit available in the country and at vacation resorts. It is a fine time to be a vegetarian for a while and see how it feels. Especially for those who have more or less "stomach and liver trouble," due to excess of food and insufficient food.

Green peas, string beans, asparagus, new potatoes, green corn, berries, lettuce, cabbage, onions, greens of all kinds, the list of appetizing and healthful foods is a long one.

Eggs do not build up strength and blood any more than peas or green peas do, perhaps not so much. Eggs are simply more concentrated nutriment. The chief fault of our city diet is lack of bulk. The intestine is not given necessary exercise. Let the farmers put their eggs in cold storage or waterglass, and eat what the earth so abundantly supplies in the summer time.

People with autointoxication, constipation bilious tendency so-called, dyspepsia, flatulency, and numerous other symptoms of digestive disturbance, should strive to get away from the concentrated diet of city life and give the alimentary tube a vacation. A change is as good as a rest. Let the vacation diet be a radical change for the better.

One who loves fresh country milk makes no mistake in drinking plenty of it. Next to fried corn meal mush and well-made coffee, there is no delicacy to compare with milk fresh and warm from the cow, in the opinion of the writer of these remarks. Then it is uncontaminated by human handling and not a culture medium for all sorts of germs; moreover, the natural ferments present in the milk are still alive and active, which probably makes the milk more digestible than ordinary market milk.

Be a vegetarian for the period of your vacation and see how fine you will feel.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Sleeping With Arms Up

Please be so kind as to say whether it is harmful to sleep with arms up over the head.

ANSWER—Not as a rule. If you awake with numbness or lameness or pain in arms, then do not sleep in that position. It causes some pressure upon the vessels and brachial plexus of nerves passing down under collar bone.

Food for the Baby

Our baby is six months old, and after the first two months we had to put him on canned milk, feeding according to directions on the can. The past month I have also fed him one feeding a day of dairy milk mixed with two parts of water and a teaspoonful of lime water and one teaspoonful of grated boiled flour ball. The child is fat, bowels regular, sleep well. Should I continue this feeding, and for how long? (Mrs. A. M.)

ANSWER—Better buy all your milk from the dairyman, and increase the strength a little each week until the baby takes straight whole fresh milk two months hence. Also add to the diet some fresh meat broth (beef, chicken or mutton), three days a week, and some fresh fruit juice (orange, peach, berry, any fruit juice) every day apart from milk feedings. When baby is eight months old he should have a little mashed baked potato every day. Babies need vitamins, whether they are fat or not. Canned or condensed milk cheats the baby of vitamins. Fresh milk is rich in vitamins. Vitamins are essential for the normal development of the nervous system and blood.

Remedy for Blackheads

Please inform me of a good treatment for blackheads on the nose and face. Some I can press out, but others I cannot.

ANSWER—Each night or each alternate night bathe the face for fifteen minutes with very hot water in a basin in which a tablespoonful of borax and acid powder is dissolved. Follow this by mopping skin with dooses of cotton wet with alcohol or toilet water. Then massage gently by rolling skin between fingers. Finally bathe the face with cold water and dry with friction.

THE REAL THING

Jack was stout and his face was round and rosy. He was sitting on the steps in front of his home when a group of boys passed, and they immediately began to tease him about having the mumps. He took it for a while and then replied: "Mumps nothin' them's just cheeks."

Cured By An Idea

By Frederic J. Haskin

Washington, D. C. — That the young soldier, who recently regained his power of speech as the result of a flight in an airplane, was cured solely by the conviction that he would be cured, is the assertion of surgeons of the Public Health Service who are acquainted with the case.

Haskin

This patient found himself wholly unable to speak after an automobile accident in which he was not otherwise injured.

The doctors prescribed as a cure a flight in an airplane to a great elevation, and the man came down able to speak once more.

But, contrary to the popular belief, this trip to the clouds, with its accompanying thrills for one unaccustomed to sky travel, was not in itself responsible for relieving the unresponsive throat of the young man.

One immediately thinks that the rarified atmosphere to be found at higher altitudes accounts for the voice recovery; that the throat trouble, possibly originally due to bronchial congestion, ceased to prevent the processes of speech, once the clearer air was breathed. The thought is perhaps even more general that the flight, with its excitement, its dips and spins, in reality "scared" the man into speech. Newspaper and magazine cartoons following in the wake of the first announcement of voice recovery by flight, have been based largely on this belief that the voice suddenly came under control when its owner sought desperately to articulate the word "Help!"

The young man was not "scared" in talking, according to the doctors who suggested the flight as a remedy. The young man's inability to speak was not due to ordinary throat troubles, but was the result of a misbelief brought about by a weakened physical condition and the nervous strain of the automobile accident in which he figured.

The doctors were asked to explain why an air trip had been prescribed. They laughed and said, "We could have told him to go down into a coal mine, with as much hope and prospects for recovery, but Bolling Field Air Station happened to be handier than a coal mine."

Cured by Conviction

"Convincing young Renz that the trip in the plane would bring back his voice did more than the flight. It was a trick, of course, but it helped him and therefore was justifiable."

Renz had been treated by a number of doctors at considerable expense, but without success. He was becoming melancholy with the thought that he might never again use his voice. This negative thought firmly gripped him, and to break the spell into which he had been thrown, it was necessary, the physicians explain, to suggest a treatment whose frankness would appeal to him as having in it a possible recovery.

Renz had never been in a plane. The anticipated experience promised novelty. The doctors were careful to keep constantly before him the thought that when he came down he would be talking again. If they had chosen some other new experience for him, making certain that it was similarly thoroughly convincing of its curative power, the doctors believe he would have attained equal success.

Renz made the trip, and while at a reasonably high altitude regained his faculty of speech. The doctors were as happy as Renz, but perhaps not quite so surprised.

A few weeks later Renz appeared before them again, his voice once more missing. A second trip was proposed and Renz was told that this was the first time such recurrence of voice impairment had occurred following an air trip. Again he was convinced that the flights must be successful, and again he recovered his voice.

The doctors explained that Renz had merely suffered a relapse in his positive belief rather than in actual voice impairment. Someone had undoubtedly told him that the recovery would not be permanent, and Renz had believed. Thus far the young man has continued to believe that his voice has permanently returned and he has not found it necessary to seek either additional or different treatment.

The recovery of a lost faculty recalls similar cases, many of which have been utilized as the bases of short stories and moving picture plots. Many picture-goers were disgusted at the climax of a picture which enjoyed much popularity a few months ago (Humoresque) because the crippled hero of the film suddenly found the use of his limbs when his sweetheart was in danger. These critics thought they were being asked to grant credence to something a little unreasonable.

Other Cases
But Public Health Service doctors cite many such cases of recovery, especially where there is present in the individual no fundamental or organic impairment. Following an accident persons sometimes believe that their arms or legs are not capable of performing their usual functions. The belief, the physicians state, grows stronger as the limbs grow weaker through disuse, but before the patient can be successfully treated, this belief must be uprooted.

Fright often provokes the hasty banishment of a negative belief, and permits the positive "I can" thought to gain predominance. Slight fright, such as that accompanying an ordinarily insignificant fall, the slamming of a door, a near accident, or perhaps a repetition of the very cause of the voice loss, will often prove the only medicine to effect recovery. The patient, however, is not "scared" into recovery, but rather suddenly permits the positive belief to gain rightful rule.

This may or may not be a form of Christian Science, but it is practiced in many cases in which doctors have first proven to their own satisfaction that no organic wrong exists in the patient.

Prevalence of such mis-beliefs is noticeable in many overseas veterans. Unconsciously the men will nurse some imagined injury which provides them with compensation. At heart they have no thought of defrauding the Government. They would be sorely insulted if it were suggested that they were playing make-believe merely to gain the checks Uncle Sam has provided for them in lieu of perfect health. If compensation were suddenly removed and they were thrown on their own resources, their faculties might suddenly return. It is all a subconscious process over which the individual has no control. Gradually the doctors are helping these men to believe positively, and are thereby adding to the list of recoveries.

One of the Public Health Service doctors engaged in treating these nerve-afflicted patients tells of a woman who figured in a street car accident. She complained that she could no longer use her arm, though doctors failed to find an injury. Several months later the woman obtained a settlement from the traction company, and shortly afterward her arm readily functioned in pre-accident style. The doctors explained that the subconsciously the woman had anticipated a financial settlement for the supposed injury, and that once settlement had been accomplished there existed no longer the belief that such impairment was an advantage.

A fraud? No, say the doctors, for the woman was so situated that the use of her arm would have meant much more to her than the sum she collected. It was merely a subconscious belief that would not be banished until all chance for future financial gain was removed.

It would be easy, of course, to exaggerate this idea into a superstition. What these cases really show is that a person can be functionally injured by an idea, and that the injury can be cured by substituting another idea for the damaging one. If the vocal chords of Renz had been actually impaired, the doctors say, airplane flights would have done nothing for him.

But this power of ideas to injure and aid us is interesting. There are probably few of us who are not being bullied and weakened by some idea or other.

Q. How does the size of the brain of the human being compare with that of other animals? P. A. Q.

It is larger and heavier absolutely than that of any other animal except the elephant and the larger whales.

Q. What does radium look like? K. D.

A. The Geological Survey says that radium is ordinarily obtained from its ores in the form of hydrous sulphate, or bromide, and it is in the form of these salts that it is usually sold and used. These are all white or nearly all white substances, whose appearance is quite similar to common salt or baking powders.

Q. Why are moths and millers attracted by a light? H. K.

A. The Biological Survey says scientists have never been able to ascertain why moths and millers are attracted by a light. This is doubly hard to understand because of the fact that these insects hide themselves away from the light during the day-time and seem to be attracted only by artificial light.

Q. What use can be made of broom-corn stover? R. M.

A. The Department of Agriculture says that broom-corn stover which consists of the stalks and leaves remaining after the brush is removed, may be used as silage or roughage, or it may be pastured. Stover of the Standard variety is commonly used for pasture, and any remainder later turned under as fertilizer.

Use More Vegetables

During the summer months meat should be served not oftener than once a day, and milk, eggs and vegetables used in abundance.

Vegetables served in cream sauce on toast make an ideal luncheon dish. The cream sauce is nourishing and is a delightful means of putting milk in the diet of persons who find this beverage unpleasant to drink.

There is one way to make sauce and have it smooth and perfect.

First melt the butter in a smooth saucepan. Do not let the butter bubble while melting. Then add the flour, stirring constantly. The mixture should be perfectly smooth and blended. Add thin cream or top milk very slowly, stirring and cooking until this mixture is smooth and blended. After the sauce is the right thickness let boil two minutes. This will make a sauce that will not need rubbing through a sieve before it is fit to pour over vegetables, for the flour has had no chance to lump.

A wire whisk may be used when adding the milk and then all can be put in at once.

A cream sauce should not be too thick, especially if served on toast. 2 tablespoons of butter, 1 rounded ta-

THE BOOK OF MARTHA

A Stormy Sky and a Stormy Heart
 Bob had pulled out his watch and was replacing it in his pocket at the moment his eyes caught mine. He was waiting for somebody and that somebody was late, so much I guessed before I waved him a greeting. He acknowledged my gesture, and then walked down the stairs behind him. I flushed. My husband was rude. He should have come to speak with me and with Van for a moment. I smiled stupidly at Van, refused to let him put me in my car.

It was blizzard weather. It would be wise for me to go straight home, but I decided to call for Martha, who has no car. I needed to tell my troubles to her. Once more Ann's folly was imperiling my happiness. I didn't think it had imperiled Bob's particularly, for he would rush off to one K. Miller—doubtless he would snatch at an excuse to do so.

A few minutes after I entered Martha Palmer's office, I walked Van, and I knew that I had come upon a new angle in my friends' business career.

Van was arranging "a living trust" for his sister Peggy, who was a flapper in a private school, and Van's sole responsibility. Van didn't like responsibility and he intended to get rid of his only one by means of "a living trust." Then he could circle around the globe at his pleasure and never bother a second about Peggy's financial safety.

It was an admirable arrangement but I doubted if the idea ever would have occurred to Van had Martha's hair been unkempt, instead of a golden halo above her brow.

Van laid siege to Martha the minute I introduced him. Most women were easy when Van smiled but Martha was indifferent and therefore difficult. Business was Van's only possible approach to her.

For Martha, it was all legitimate business. I was in the way.

I found my car in a shroud of snow, and as I chugged homeward I (knew just how Van would terminate his visit to Martha's office. He would linger until the last minute, then he would take advantage of the blizzard to carry Martha home in his auto. Of course he would have done as much for a man, perhaps, since sleet had tied up the street car service.

Visitors

When Flippety-Flap shuffled into the place where the Council of Creatures' was having a meeting followed by the twins in their Magic Shoes, everybody turned to look. It was plain to see that they were not only amazed at the sight of the visitors, but curious and suspicious as well. Even the fact that the mongoose ushered them in and cautiously peeped out through the doorway after him to see if they had been observed, did not seem to make the members of the council any more friendly.

Had you been there, or had I been there my dears, I'm sure that we should have—well, shivered at least. The wart-hog, who was president, looked especially ferocious. But the twins were not in the least afraid.

"Well, what do you want?" he asked gruffly.

"We don't want anything replied Flippety-Flap emphatically bobbing his top-lock. Nancy and Nick chimed in hastily. "No, we don't indeed!"

"Then what did you come for?" went on the wart-hog.

"We didn't come for anything," Mr. Wart-Hog began to look pleased and the antelope and gazelle looked relieved at this reply.

And didn't that wicked old creature, Tag Tiger, send you to spy on us?" asked Mr. Wart-Hog.

Flippety-Flap shook his head. "No indeed, he didn't. We are looking for him."

"Looking for him?" shrieked every single creature at once as though they had practiced it.

"We—we don't understand you sir," said the antelope timidly.

It was Nick who explained. "Why," said he, "we want to take him home with us, so he can be in the circus."

"Then," suggested the wart-hog, "as you wish to have him and we wish to be rid of him, let's have a good talk at once. We may think of something." (To Be Continued)

NEW PITCHER WILL FACE OSHKOSH TEAM

Former Central League Hurler
Will Take Mound in Game
Next Sunday.

Kaukauna—The management of the local league club has made another determined effort to place a formidable lineup on the baseball field for the game next Sunday with Oshkosh. Stogeman will go back into his old position as catcher. "Smoky"
Schmidt won't take the rubber next Sunday. Opposing teams are getting onto his smoke and it's time for a change. A pitcher from last year's central league, Breilmaier by name, will take the mound. Breilmaier is said to be a terror with the bat also.
Schmidt and Minkehege will alternate in right field.

With that lineup the team has about as hard a bunch of clouters as any in the league and the manager figures that the breaks are coming Kaukauna's way soon. There is hardly a weak hitter in the bunch. Huber can be depended on to get on good batting and Jansen also is a good hitter.
Eggen and Thompson, the new center
fielders, may possibly clout out another home, as he did last Sunday in the game with Menasha.

Breilmaier began this season with Two Rivers of the Lake Shore league
but he jumped them and played ball around Madison for a time. Thompson was a member of the Manitowoc baseball club last season.

A win over Oshkosh Sunday probably will start the winning streak for Kaukauna. The team was in the same hole last year and it lost seven games before it began to climb. A big attendance is looked for Sunday.

Who Will Win

Yes Berens—Dempsey will win. The champion will do away with the Frenchman so quick people won't know there was a fight. I think the foreigner will be knocked out in less time than it took Dempsey to win
from Willard.

REFUSE TO REPEAL
2-CENT FARE LAW

Farmers in Assembly Are Dead
Set Against Change in Rate Fixing.

Special to Post-Crescent
Madison, Wis. — The assembly refused to repeal the 2-cent railroad fare law Tuesday afternoon, the motion to non concur in the senate bill being made by J. C. Hanson, Dane county assemblyman.

There appeared to be a little confusion over the bill which was introduced by the senate judiciary committee at the request of M. B. Olbrich, executive counsel. The old 2-cent fare law fixed the rates for passenger fares on steam railroads in Wisconsin at 2 cents per mile. The railroads now claim this rate consti-tutory and have instituted suit in the United States supreme court to declare the law unconstitutional on that grounds. In the mean-time the passenger fare rate fixed by the interstate commerce commission is 3.5 cents per mile. The public utility law of Wisconsin expressly provides that the railroad commission shall have no jurisdiction over the passenger fare.

As it is generally admitted that the 2-cent fare is gone for good, the bill in question was introduced to repeal the old law and place the matter in the hands of the railroad commission on the supposition that the court will declare the law unconstitutional and there will then be no body in Wisconsin to fix the rates and the railroads may charge any amount they please until the legislature can be called into special session to enact a new law.

The bill was passed by the senate
last week but practically no opposition but when it came up in the assembly Tuesday afternoon it was at once evident the farmers were against it and it was killed with a shout in a viva voce vote.

Miss Viola Wolf is spending a week's vacation in Manitowoc.

Milwaukee Citizen Finally Restored To Splendid Health, Says Tanlac
Can't Be Best

Herbert Hobus, 1485 22nd St., Milwaukee, Wis., a well known machinist employed by the Seaman Body Co., is now an enthusiastic witness to the wonderful merits of Tanlac. He says:
"For two years and a half I think
I spent about half I made for medicines and treatment, but Tanlac is the only thing that ever did me any real good. My stomach and kidneys were all out of order, my liver was sluggish and I had awful spells of dizziness, when everything turned black before me. There was a catch in my back that I simply couldn't get rid of and I went humped over all the time. I was nervous and so weak it took all the strength I could muster to get through a day's work. Honestly, it was an effort for me, on my way home from work in the evenings, to walk the two blocks from the car line to my house, and I couldn't eat a mouthful of supper.

"But it's different with me now,
for I work all day long and even put in overtime, and go home feeling fine, to enjoy a good supper and a good night's sleep. My troubles are all gone, and I feel the good of Tanlac to my finger tips. In my opinion it's the best medicine ever put in a bottle."

SERVE COUNTRY BEST BY LIVING UP TO ITS IDEALS

Milwaukee Man Tells Rotarians That America's Future Is in Their Hands.

"What is the future of America?" Is it to be bolshevism, anarchy and radicalism, or are we to continue to live under a sane, just and enlightened government? The answer is up to you and to me and to intelligent Americans of this day and generation.

"We are called to serve our country and mankind, now, even as our sons and brothers three or four years ago were called to die for it. Sometimes it is more difficult to be heroes of peace than heroes of war."

The above questions were put to Rotarians at their annual banquet at Hotel Appleton Tuesday evening by their speaker, Herbert M. Laffin of Milwaukee, a prominent member, in an inspiring address.

The banquet was attended by nearly 100 persons, each member having the privilege of inviting a guest.

was the most successful gathering in the history of the club and members were inspired anew by the speaker to carry out Rotarian ideals.

Rasey Is Toastmaster
L. C. Rasey acted as toastmaster. The program included instrumental and vocal solos by Miss Ann Thomas and Mrs. A. R. Berger of Lawrence Conservatory of Music. Several Rotary songs were rendered by members of the club.

"It is a great pleasure for me to visit this Rotary club," said the speaker. "It is a pleasure for me to meet Rotarians anywhere, because they are men who are doing things, they are men who in their communities stand for everything highest and best and sweetest and noblest in the life of the community and state and nation."

The speaker gave a brief historical sketch of early explorers that came into the Fox river valley including Nicolet, Joliet and Marquette and said it was in 1874 that Father Marquette came up Fox river and went down Wisconsin river.

"That was 100 years," he said, "before the adoption of the declaration of independence, one hundred years before the birth of this nation. In the time that has gone since then there has developed here on this western continent a mighty democracy reaching from sea to sea."

"What are our ideals? What are the ideals that have inspired America, that have led us on to the achievement of our wonderful destiny? The world ideal is very much abused these days, all sorts of ideals but there are fundamental ideals that mean America."

America Is An Ideal
"America is something more than a geographical division of the earth. America is an ideal, a hope, an aspiration."

The speaker reviewed the history of the rise and fall of the Grecians and said:

"Now, what lesson, fellow Rotarians, men of Wisconsin, of this twentieth century, what lesson can we learn from this people and this far off time? This, primarily, that no nation can long depart from the ways of righteousness and justice and survive."

"It must underlie every civilization that endures," said Mr. Laffin, in speaking of character. "What is the supreme value of life? Surely, not what we have, not what we know, neither what we do, but what we are, and the noblest thing earth has is power of extending personality."

"It was character that made America possible. The character of George Washington made possible the achievement of our nation's independence. It was the character of John Marshall, our great chief justice, that made the constitution a vital living thing."

Men of Character
Speaking of Abraham Lincoln, Mr. Laffin said:

"Strong as rock, his character, as we know, was based upon truth and honor and personal integrity which

WHY DOES SHE LOOK SO OLD?
This question has been asked about many a woman under thirty, who has married and taken upon herself the care of a house and young children. When a woman is suffering from female weakness, bearing down pains, head and backache and nervous irritation, it is well nigh impossible to attend to her duties and retain the charm and freshness of youth. Must she then struggle on toward the inevitable nervous breakdown or premature old age?

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved money women from such a fate. Thousands of grateful letters from such women testify to the merits of this wonderful root and herb medicine for female ills.

LITTLE BACTERIA IS LEFT IN WATER

Removal Efficiency of Filtration
Plant Last Month Was 99.9 Per Cent.

Water entering the city filtration plant for purification during the month of May contained on an average, 1,599 bacilli to every 20 drops. When it was pumped into the city mains after filtration and treatment it contained only one bacillus to every 20 drops. This fact is shown in the report of the pumping station and filtration plant for the month of May.

The removal of 1,499 bacteria coli from every drop of water represents a bacterial removal efficiency of 99.9 per cent for the plant during last month. More than one million gallons of water were treated daily, the total volume being 41,930,000 gallons. Nine-tenths of a grain of sulphite of alumina was used in each gallon and 52 parts of chlorine was used to every million gallons. Eleven color units were removed from each gallon during the process of treatment.

Three per cent of the water pumped during the month was used to wash settling tanks and this amounted to 1,440,000 gallons. The new alum process now in use by the plant saved the city $158 during May this year as compared with May last year.

enabled him to lead this nation through our greatest trial.

"Theodore Roosevelt, the great American of our own day, who awoke America to a consciousness of its duty and responsibility to mankind, was great because of his splendid character and integrity."

"So I say, character underlies every civilization, and if we would perpetuate this land of ours and these blessings that came down to us through the years we must stimulate through this generation those traits of character which made America great in the years that have gone."

Live True to Ideals
"We can best serve our country, we can best demonstrate our patriotism by living true to the ideals of the brotherhood in which this nation was conceived. Lincoln lived and died that this nation might be united, and that every man, woman and little child might have a place in the sun. If we can only catch the spirit that animated that great American and exemplify even in a small way in Rotary what a wonderful service we will be rendering to all mankind."

"It is our opportunity to live and labor in this old world for those to come after, to reign as kings and fight for the rights of men yet unborn, to labor and sacrifice and achieve perhaps the glorious gifts of the principle of life and liberty. This is the destiny of the Rotarian."

DAUGHERTY FACES DEMPSEY

Attorney General Daugherty faces Jack Dempsey at the champion's camp in New Jersey. Daugherty promised to attend the Dempsey-Carpenter fight with the French ambassador "to see that the international properties are observed."

Seymour Has Band
Seymour village has succeeded in raising enough funds to support a band for the summer, and concerts are to be given every Thursday evening. The band already is organized and played at the recent Holstein picnic. Members of the committee which raised the funds are Fred Huth, George Fiedler, C. J. Jackson and William Beck.

Visits California City

Miss Nellie E. Tift, who is traveling in California, spent several days in Sacramento. She visited places of historical interest, including Sutter Fort, the center of activities in the Gold Rush days of 1849 and the first interior settlement of white men in California.

BOY SCOUTS EAGER FOR SUMMER CAMP

One topic overshadows all others these days in boy scout chatter—that of summer camps. A list posted on the wall of the office of E. R. Henderson, scout executive, grows daily as one scout after another dispels all doubt and says, "Dad, I'm going." A heavy enrollment is expected before the opening camp date, August 15.

Equipment is being accumulated gradually for the annual outing at Onaway island, Chain-o-Lakes. The buildings will be put in the best of shape and many other arrangements completed for the accommodation of the large delegation.

Two camp periods will be provided, each of one week's duration, although those who ask permission may stay longer than a week, if they come during the early week. The camp will close August 27.

Several Appleton scoutmasters expect to accompany members of their troops to the camp, not only to help supervise the activities and the scouts, but also to enjoy an outdoor vacation themselves. The camp is ideally situated on an island in Rainbow lake, about three miles from Waupaca. Access is had to several lakes by going only a short distance.

Boys who go will find the camp in ideal refuge from the hot weather of the city, Mr. Henderson says. There will be a daily camp program that will

14-YEAR-OLD GIRL COMES HERE ALONE FROM GERMANY

Charlotta Hannemann, granddaughter of Mrs. Emilie Hannemann, Summer-st., has just arrived here from Germany. She is 14 years old, a strong healthy miss, but somewhat retiring. She took passage at Hamburg and of all the other emigrants aboard the vessel she was the only one from her native country. Four other persons who were to have come with her were detained by lack of affidavit of support.

Miss Hannemann landed at Philadelphia, where she was detained several days by federal officers. From the time she left Germany until she was permitted to resume her journey at Philadelphia she passed seven examinations.

Why You Must Have Iron to Make Your Body Strong and Your Brain Keen

Alert and Powerful—Value of Spinach and Organic Iron to Help Make Rich Red Blood and Revitalize Wornout Exhausted Nerves

WITH PLENTY OF BLOOD AND IRON, YOUR BRAIN is the most wonderful thing in all creation but without these it is nothing. IRON TAKES OXYGEN from your lungs and carries it to your brain. Without iron your brain gets no oxygen; and without plenty of rich red blood and oxygen your brain becomes dull, heavy, YOUR INTELLECT POOR, your memory fails, YOU DO FOOLISH THINGS, make bad decisions and you really amount to nothing, so far as accomplishing anything of importance is concerned.

Also without iron YOUR BLOOD BECOMES THIN AND WATERY and loses its power to change food into living cells and tissue and therefore nothing you eat does you the proper amount of good—you do not get the full strength out of it.

THERE ARE 30,000,000,000,000 RED BLOOD CORPUSCLES IN YOUR BLOOD AND EACH ONE MUST HAVE IRON.

When, as a result of iron starvation you get iron in like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples, while metal he iron is just as it comes from the action of strong acids on small pieces of iron. Organic iron may be had from your drugstore under the name of NUXATED IRON. Nuxated iron represents organic iron in such a highly concentrated form that one dose is estimated to be approximately equivalent (in organic iron content) to eating half a quart of spinach or one quart of green vegetables. It is like taking extract of beef instead of eating pounds of meat. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturers if you do not obtain perfectly satisfactory results. For sale by all druggists.

HARDING FRIENDLY TO WORLD COURT

Mr. Root was discovering on the other side of the Atlantic, made a speech shortly after the election echoing Senator Lodge's statement that the league was "dead." Mr. Harding confirmed this later on but it is now of course insisted that the president was expressing an opinion only so far as the United States is concerned. In other words the league technically doesn't exist with respect to America and Ambassador George Harvey added a sentence to the funeral oration recently when he said that the Harding administration wouldn't deal with the league directly or indirectly. The foreign powers have since sent all their communications through other channels and the latest device adopted by the Council of the League when it wishes to reach the American government is to address a note to the supreme council on which Americans represented.

EMERY TO CARRY ON FIGHT BEGUN
BY PREDECESSOR

New American Legion Commander Plans to Keep Service Program Alive.

Special to Post-Crescent
Grand Rapids, Mich.—"Carry on!" That is the keynote of the task that Major John G. Emery of Grand Rapids has set for himself as new National Commander of the American Legion.

"I consider the continuance of the fight that the late Col. Fred W. Galbraith, Jr. was making, the most important part of the great post to which I have been elected," says Emery.

"The Legion must stand by its program of keeping a flame in the hearts of former service men and women a sense of individual and collective obligation to community, state and nation, and by its fight in behalf of disabled veterans of the World War."

Emery intends to devote his entire time to the administration of his new office.

Quits Local Office

The folks of his home town are both pleased and sorry over his election—sorry because he has already resigned as president of the board of city commissioners.

Emery has been entrusted with that high honor ever since he came home from the war, and he was right in line for the office of mayor as the commission elects one of its own members.

Major Emery's war record is one that he may well be proud of. He enlisted in 1917, when he was 36. He might well have claimed exemption as he has a wife and two daughters, Jane, 14, and Esther 10. However, he straightened up his business affairs and entered the second officers training camp at Fort Sheridan, Ill.

In August, 1917, he graduated as a Captain of Infantry and went to France with the first group of Americans after assignment to the railway transportation office at Blois, France. After attending the First Corps school at Gondrecourt, he took charge of Company F, 18th Infantry, first division.

Emery was in the big battles at Cantigny, St. Mihiel and in the Meuse-Argonne offensive. He was commissioned a major in infantry in August, 1918.

It was shortly after this that Emery was wounded by shell fire. He was sent home and discharged from the hospital and army, March 31, 1919.

It is fitting that Emery was born on July 4. He has always lived in Grand Rapids. In private life he is a real estate and insurance broker.

CONNECTICUT MAKES IT EASY TO MARRY—A FLOCK OF WIVES

Preacher Absconds With Money Belonging to Church and Becomes Bigamist.

(Special to Post-Crescent)
New York—Connecticut's "non-bigamous bigamy" industry continues to flourish.

Are you tired of your wife? Are you tired of your husband? Why bother with divorce? If you have no moral scruples, you can marry down to Connecticut with the girl of your heart, tell a lie or two, and get married quietly. They won't prosecute you, or trouble you, or bother you, unless you remain there over night. If you do that, you're a bigamist; if you don't, you are not.

That's the technicality in Connecticut jurisprudence that has blazed the way for half a dozen men of more or less prominence, including a New Jersey jurist and a New York broker, to take unto themselves second wives without divorcing their first wives.

Siver's Case
The latest is Shubel K. Siver, treasurer of the First Reformed Church of New Brunswick, N. J., who disappeared May 4.

Investigation disclosed that he had eloped with Adelle Gourin, a young French waitress of Perth Amboy. A warrant issued after Siver's disappearance charged he had stolen $5200 worth of Liberty bonds belonging to the church.

Six days later news came from Greenwich, Conn., that Siver and Miss Gourin had been married by Justice of the Peace Albert S. Mead, the day following their departure from New Brunswick.

Obtains License
Siver had gone to Greenwich on April 29 and made application for a license, under the five-day law. On at Black Creek Auditorium, Thursday night, June 23. Music by Biel Girl Orchestra of Beaver Dam.

May 5, he appeared with Miss Gourin and handed Justice Mead an affidavit signed by a Mrs. Katherine Gourin, which gave consent to her daughter's marriage, Adelle being under age.

In his application, Siver said he was single and that "this is my first marriage."

As a matter of fact Siver left a wife and two children in his New Brunswick home when he whisked northward with Miss Gourin.

But the lie he told in Connecticut isn't considered perjury, because, again, the couple hurried right out of Connecticut and upon their arrival in New Brunswick Siver published the bans.

Bonds Missing
Church and police authorities investigated the disappearance of the $5200 bonds. Only two men, it was shown, had access to the church safety deposit vault. One was Siver. On May 10 Prosecutor Joseph Striker of Middlesex county obtained a warrant of arrest for Siver, charging him with embezzlement. The Burns Detective Agency was immediately hired to find Siver and the police of the United States were notified. So far he has eluded capture.

The rest Mrs. Siver, when seen at her home in New Brunswick, said that when her husband's infatuation for Adelle wore off, he could return to her and she would forgive him.

Other Instances
The Siver case is similar to that of Herbert Thornton Andrews, New York broker, who made a second "marriage" in Connecticut and brought his bride to his own home where both wives lived for a time.

And it is similar, too, to the case of former Vice Chancellor Lane, who married Geraldine Garrison-Kerr, only to run away. 64 days later, to Stamford, Conn., where he made another woman his wife. He returned and is living happily with Geraldine, while wife No. 2 lives in northern New York. No one is prosecuted.

100,000 WETS TO MARCH IN PARADE

Personal Liberty Campaigner Starts Movement to Prohibit Prohibition.

By E. M. Thierry
New York.—Meet Frank C. Drake—the man who has sprung into fame by combining the adage "It pays to advertise with the question 'Is prohibition popular?'"

Drake says he is prepared to echo an emphatic "Yes!" to the adage and a decisive "No!" to the question. One little 13-line ad in a New York paper—and presto! within a week he had received so many replies that he's swamped under mail and telephone calls.

Drake's ad called for 100,000 men to march with him July 4 in a parade of protest against "Volsteadism." He got 100,000 and more, including thousands of women.

The result of that little ad, Drake

WORLD'S OLDEST CLOWN

Al Miaco in Costume and "As Is."

By Marian Hale

Newark, N. J.—"To play the fool and do that well," says Al Miaco, the most famous as well as the oldest of clowns, as he leaned over his crossed hands, "is the secret of youth. Laughter keeps you young."

Al Miaco is 76. He has just returned the show in Newark after his first vacation since he started clowning in 1851.

"I've been at the game a long time 67 years now, and I've seen things change for the worse, day by day," the veteran jester told me. "In the old times the clown was the whole show; he declaimed, he was the master mimic, he had to know the art of contortion and of pantomime, he had to bring the tear to the eye at the moment when there was most laughter."

"Now—well, miss, perhaps you yourself have noticed that the clown only howls, makes faces, turns flip-flops and is the butt of practical jokes. "In the old days the sawdust ring held just a handful of performers; now there are three to five rings going at once, and when you have lost the intimate touch you have lost many things, and not the least of these, the meaning of the clown."

Al Miaco, otherwise Al Frisbie, was nine when he joined the Yankee Robinson's Circus. His wife, Laura, was a trapeze performer and they fell in love while the circus was traveling in boats on the Mississippi. They had two sons, but they are gone.

"My advice to young people," said the veteran, "Well, it's this—don't be afraid to play the fool from time to time—only mark you, do it wisely! If you stand on your head, make an art of the job!"

now figures, will be that at least 300,000 persons will be in the line of march.

His $36 Message
This is the ad that ran double-column and cost him $36:

I want 100,000 men who are opposed to the tyranny of Volsteadism to march with me on the Fourth of July in a parade of protest, and to take part in a mass meeting for the restoration of personal liberty as originally guaranteed in the constitution of the United States. The idea originated with Don Marquis of Sun Dial fame. I am a private citizen of scant means and limited leisure, and I urge the cooperation of others less handicapped and more experienced in organization than I am to make this a demonstration impressive enough to be felt throughout the nation. But I want to hear from everybody—clubs, organizations and individuals. This is no press agent stunt. Please communicate with Frank C. Drake, No. 124 East 15th-st., Brooklyn, between 11 a. m. and 1 p. m. Tel. Coney Island 1821.

The idea for the parade, as Drake says in his ad, came from an item in Don Marquis' humorous column in The Sun. The idea originated, says Marquis, with an anonymous contributor. Drake is art director of The World, but neither paper was behind the movement. It was initiated by Drake, who collected the cost of the ad from a few friends.

Gains Publicity
Now every newspaper in New York is giving much space to the parade.

French Face Financial Show-Down, House Says

Drastic Budgeting and Tax Revisions Are Sorely Needed in France.

By EDWARD M. HOUSE
Copyright, 1921, by Public Ledger Co.

Paris—From a careful survey of the situation one is led to the conclusion that while France is in a comparatively satisfactory economic condition her financial condition is not satisfactory. On the contrary, Great Britain is rapidly bringing about a healthy financial condition, but her economic situation is not so good as that of France.

France has not yet grappled with her financial rehabilitation as Great Britain has. She has been waiting for a decision on the question of reparations, and now that this has come she can no longer evade the financial problems which confront her. She must have a budget that will balance with her revenues.

Tax Methods Inefficient
France has not yet adjusted herself to a drastic taxable system. Her income tax is of comparatively recent growth and her people are not accustomed to paying it, nor are her tax collectors efficient in the ways necessary for its collection. In Great Britain it is the reverse, for the people there are in the habit of paying an income tax and the collectors understand the method of getting it. Therefore, we find the pound in steady appreciation and the franc fluctuating backward and forward.

Great Britain, with a larger population than France, has a territory for its maintenance less than half that of France and much less productive. Consequently Great Britain is dependent upon her foreign trade, while France can, if needs be, live within herself.

Organizing Ability Lacking

The French have not the faculty for collective organizations as have the English and Germans, although their individual initiative is greater. The French workman is less illiterate than the English workman, but the latter has a broader political understanding, and in this way the difference between them is made up. France is more given to industries of smaller proportions and of an entirely different character from that of her two great industrial neighbors. The French exports consist almost wholly of what might be termed luxuries, such as wines, silks, perfumery and articles of artistic merit. The English and Germans go in for the heavier and more substantial commodities as we do in the United States. In other words, the one caters to surplus wealth and the others produce the staples or necessary things of life.

Three Customers Lost
France has been hard hit by the nearly total loss of her three greatest customers for wines, Russia, the United States and Great Britain—Russia because of the complete suspension of trade, the United States because of prohibition and Great Britain on account of her excessive tariff.

Industrial conditions in France are not so good as they were last year, and for the same reasons that prevail in the United States and elsewhere in Europe. Before the war, in the steel industry, an ordinary workman received five francs for a ton or ten and a half hour day. Last year he received twenty francs and this year fifteen francs for an eight-hour day.

Many economists believe that the high prices and disorganization of industries were caused less by inflation than by the insistence of the government during the war that manufacturers pay any price for labor necessary to make munitions and other war supplies. The manufacturers protested, believing that they could keep up reduction almost as well at the old prices as with the new. There was no corresponding benefit to labor. The very day a munition factory announced an advance in wages everything which the laborer bought, such as food, clothing and housing, advanced in proportion.

Workers Aiding Employers.
It is to the credit of the French workman that he is helping the employer bring things back to something like order. The relations, therefore, between capital and labor in France are on a more satisfactory basis than in most countries.

One reason given for the slump in trade is that last year prices were at their peak, and industries were going at top speed to keep pace with the buying capacity of the public. Now the tax collector has begun to close in and the public has less spending capacity, and, in consequence, the demand for commodities is decreasing. Just when wages will get back to pre-war days, if ever, is uncertain, but the French workman evidences a disposition to accept lower wages along with the falling cost of living.

Rents Remain High.

The one thing not going down is rent. Laws have been enacted to meet the extortion, but to little purpose. It is said that Czechoslovakia has a law exempting income from taxation when it is put into new buildings, and that the result has been satisfactory. This is a suggestion which might be considered in the United States.

The French complain that the Germans are underselling them, and they give as one of the reasons that Germany is not taxing her people in anything like the same ratio as France. They also claim that the railroad rates, which are the initial tax on commodities, are only half as much in Germany as in France. The railroads, being owned by the German state, causes a feeling of indifference as to their earning power, since whatever is realized must go in some form to the allies for reparations.

Need Less British Coal

The situation regarding coal has undergone a change in France since last year. Then nearly 10,000,000 tons were imported from Great Britain, but there will be very much less taken from that source this year. The Saar miners are producing well. There are no labor troubles there, although it was to be expected that there would be a clash with German workmen directed by French engineers. The French have wisely retained the German foremen, and they send only such French engineers as speak German.

The wages paid in the Saar Valley are about one-third more than those paid to miners in Germany proper. The mines destroyed in Northeastern France are being slowly rehabilitated. Some of them will be restored at the end of 1922, while others will not be back to pre-war production before 1925 or 1926. Much difficulty has been experienced in the mines to prevent seepage. An ingenious method has been adopted of sinking pipes and freeing sections in order that they may become solidified, and better progress has thus been made.

Hours of Labor Shortened

The hours of the workers in mines have been shortened to six hours, which has lessened production about 22 per cent. On the other hand, efficiency has been increased to such an extent as to leave a total margin of loss of only about 7 per cent. Labor hours have been generally shortened in France from ten and ten and a half

POSSIBLE TO BUILD BRIDGE OVER OCEAN

Nothing is Impossible to Engineer if He Is Given Sufficient Money.

(Special to Post-Crescent.)

New York—If Gustav Lindenthal goes to San Francisco to study the project to construct a great bridge across the bay, don't ask him whether such a bridge is "possible." Ask him whether it is "practical."

To Lindenthal—called the world's greatest bridge builder—no engineering feat like that is "impossible." Says Lindenthal:

"Every engineering problem gets down to a question of dollars and cents. You build a bridge only if it will pay."

"People seem to think there is some conflict between a bridge and a tunnel, that it is a matter of personal preference."

"It is perfectly possible for an engineer, given enough money to do practically anything.

"I could build a bridge across the Atlantic ocean and have the piers on solid foundation, even though in places the ocean is three miles deep. That bridge could be built 300 feet high on floating anchored islands, and would be strong enough to carry the heaviest traffic and to resist the biggest gales."

"There is nothing at all impossible in such a project. But it is not practical, because the cost would be too great, and it could not carry traffic enough to pay the legitimate interest on its cost of construction and maintenance."

hours a day to eight hours. This has lessened production in many industries. The workman has endeavored to increase the hourly production in order that the employer may be satisfied with the shorter hours, but the machinery in most instances has not been arranged for the speeding-up process, and in consequence the loss is greater than it should be or will be later.

Confidence is expressed by those who know the economic situation in France best that the corner has been turned and steady progress is looked for. With the settlement of the question of reparations, the financial situation will also steadily improve, and it can now be seen that some of the many distressing problems which the war brought to France are already well on their way toward solution.

FANS WILL FLOCK TO NEW LONDON TO SEE SUNDAY'S GAME

Brandt's Team Will Present Lineup Which Defeated Oshkosh.

There will be no lack of support for the Brandt baseball team when it tucks New London on the latter's home field Sunday afternoon. Preparations are being made for large delegations of fans to accompany the team. Last Sunday's game convinced local fans that Appleton has a team which can play real baseball and they are flocking to the limit.

New London is pretty chesty over its exalted but precarious position as league leader. It is reported here that every effort will be made to strengthen the squad to meet Sunday's invaders insuring a regular battle.

Manager Murphy is satisfied with his present lineup and there will be no changes in Sunday's games. Never will play at second where he made a wonderful showing last Sunday and Duran will be in the outfield.

Shurtz proved a valuable man last Sunday when he busted out hits that scored runs. He played his best game since joining the team.

Fans were impressed with the improvement in Schult's pitching. The big spitballer hadn't been going any too good the early part of the season but he was back in form Sunday and if he keeps on going as good the other teams will have to step lively to keep up with the Brandts.

NAVAL ACADEMY CREW IS FAVORITE IN BIG RACE

By United Press Leased Wire. Poughkeepsie, N. Y.—The great eight-oared crew of the United States naval academy national and world's champions last year, reigned the favorite Wednesday to win the intercollegiate rowing championship on the Hudson river.

Columbia was second in the betting and California third with Cornell figured a probable fourth and Pennsylvania and Syracuse were considered out of it.

Great crowds flocked here Wednesday to watch the water classic of the season. The city was filled with colors, banners, pennants and flags. Old graduates and under graduates mingled in mobs on the streets singing songs and waving their colors.

A Laughing Pitcher

Clarence Mitchell—three views

There's no use being a gloomy guy just because your team isn't riding the pennant rattle.

So thinks Clarence Mitchell, star southpaw of the Brooklyn Dodgers. Mitchell is full of curves and speed and laughs.

Although he has a moving picture face, he sticks to baseball and Uncle

Wilbert Robinson.

The big southpaw helped pitch the Dodgers to a pennant in 1920.

While Uncle Wilbert's pennant luck seems to have left Flatbush so far this season, Mitchell refuses to grouch.

Few folk know that the Dodger left-hander can cut up dices with his face as well as with his cunning left wing.

Mitchell is shy about performing on the sidelines as does Nick Altrock.

But under the shadow of the bench in the club house and hotels he is a busy bird facially.

Also he practices the art of ventriloquism.

From somewhere in his throat he can do everything from making a canary sing to illustrating a tire blowout.

Mitchell was born at Franklin, Neb., 30 years ago. He still makes him home in Bill Bryan's state in the o-season.

"I'm going to laugh as long as I've got a face to do it with," says Mitchell.

Pitchers Are Outa Luck

It begins to look as if the no-hit no-run game pitcher is as extinct as the dodo.

This is not a pitcher's year. It is the day of the batsman.

Including June 14, Babe Ruth had made 23 homers, while American League pitchers in a total of 214 games had registered but 14 shut outs and the National League box men in 206 games had 21 shutouts.

Think of it. Babe Ruth had hit more home runs than the total staff of pitchers in his league have twirled shutouts.

And the fan who yelled loud and long for more hitting is in his glory.

VALUE OF ROADWORK

Before the Willard Dempsey fight at Toledo Tex. Rickard said "Willard will lose because he didn't do enough training on the road."

After Johnson knocked out Jeffries at Reno Bob Fitzsimmons said, "Jeff left all his fight on the road."

Both Dempsey and Carpenter are stooping diligently to their roadwork. Dempsey is doing more of it than the Frenchman.

After the July 2 scrap there can be no comeback on either fighter as to the roadwork score.

Neither Dempsey nor Carpenter are lumbering on their feet, so they enjoy their early morning runs.

This is to be a battle of fists for Jack—a battle of wits for Georges.

CHAMP COMES FIRST

Joe Lynch had to give Pete Herman the long end to get him for a title match.

Now the tables are turned.

Lynch and Herman are matched for a 15 round decision fight at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, in July.

The boxers will battle for 70 per cent of the gross. Lynch is to get the first $37,500 and Herman will be paid out of what's left.

That's the old story of the cham

NUDE MORON SOUGHT IN MARINETTE WOODS

Marinette, Wis.—The nude moron who attacked Miss Hulda Johnson, school teacher of the Beaver district, on a lonely stretch of road near here Saturday night, is still at large Tuesday. Searching parties have failed to find any trace of the "wild man."

ERTLE PICKED TO BE THIRD MAN IN JERSEY CITY RING

New Jersey Commission Selects Amateur Sportsman to Referee Big Scrap.

New York.—Nothing but ten days remain in the way of the Dempsey-Carpenter fight. Settlement of the referee question removed the last difference among the principals although at no time was the battle endangered by the controversy.

Harry J. Ertle who will be named officially Wednesday by the New Jersey boxing commission, has never been exactly opposed by Kearns. The manager of the champion simply had his pride hurt a little when the commission did not consult him about the referee.

Kearns was partially right from the precedent set in the past but still boxing commissions exist just for what the New Jersey commission did in this instance—to supervise and regulate the sport.

Ertle, outside of New Jersey, perhaps is the least known of all the referees named and considered as candidates. He is city marshal of Jersey City and very close to the democratic machine now on the throne in Jersey state.

Politics, of course, entered into his selection but he is not without qualifications for the job. He has been connected actively with the professional boxing game for ten years.

He boxed some himself as an amateur but never put on the gloves for money. He is more prominently identified with amateur baseball, managing a parochial school team in a city league.

His most important bout was the Carpenter-Levinsky bout last fall. He also officiated at championship bouts between Jimmy Wilde and Mickey Russell; Johnny Kilbane and Frankie Burns; Benny Leonard and Johnny Dundee; Jack Britton and Ted Lewis; and Mike O'Dowd and Augie Ratner.

Who'll Win?

Inquiring Reporter Each Day Will Ask a Group of Men, Picked at Random, for Their Opinions on the Dempsey-Carpenter Fight.

TWO YET FOR BABE

Two baseball records still defy Babe Ruth.

Bobby Lowe of the old Boston Nationals got four home runs, two in one inning, and a single off Chamblin of the Reds at Boston, May 30, 1894.

Ed Delahanty of the Philadelphia Nationals got four home runs and a single off Adams Terry, in Chicago on July 13, 1896.

Babe's accomplishments to date are:

1. Fifty four home runs for a season.

2. Seven home runs in five consecutive games.

3. Three home runs in three consecutive times at bat on June 13, 14.

4. One hundred and twenty-six home runs (up to June 15) for his major league career.

5. Greatest number of home runs with bases filled in one season—four in 1919.

6. Greatest number of home runs hit on any pitcher by one man—10 off Dausa.

7. Longest taped home run ever hit—475 feet, at Polo grounds, June 14.

SPIRIT OF RAY

Joe Ray raced and won the other day with tape wrapped about one of his legs.

That typifies the spirit of American athletes today.

It is the reason so many records of the past have been shattered already this spring.

Just as Ray loves to run in spite of all handicaps or odds, America's boys have their heart and soul in accomplishing the seemingly impossible on the field of athletic competition.

No wonder America is called the hub of modern sport.

is a blessing. It acts as a lash.

"When I started out as a messenger in the stockyard district I spent my nights in school instead of hanging about street corners."

"But always I dreamed of success. To make something of himself a man must be a dreamer. He must see ahead and visualize himself in the goal of success."

"But a dream is worth nothing unless it is capitalized. Don't just dream and then let it go at that. Action alone can make dreams come true."

He was graduated from a night high school and later took up law—always studying after work.

"I found," he says "that getting ahead means putting something in the other fellow's pocket so that he'll put something in yours."

Nylm says he has only started out in life.

"When a man thinks he has reached the top of the ladder he's done for. Let each success be an urge to climb one notch higher. But don't trample in greed the other fellow who's ambitious, too. And remember this:

"Every man is a potential success the moment his foot is born."

Referee

Harry Ertle

The New Jersey boxing commission has sent the squabble over selection of a referee for the Dempsey-Carpenter fight by picking Harry Ertle, a democratic politician and an amateur sportsman, to be the third man in the ring. It is said that everybody concerned is quite well satisfied with the selection.

Sport Views And News

The Lake Shore league is having its troubles this year. President Hedding is having his hands full keeping the league going with fights occurring almost every Sunday. Last Sunday Two Rovers and Mantowoc got into a wrangle which resulted in a forfeited game and Green Bay fans wanted to mob the umpire who is alleged to have been unduly favorable to Milwaukee. Fans are contrasting the league shore wheel with the Fox River Valley league and are finding many things in favor of the local circuit.

And the Drews still keep on traveling. Dean's crew is now within short distance from first place and at the clip they are moving it will take some pretty good baseball to keep them off the top rung. Three weeks ago the anvil chorus in the Cream City was yelling for Dean's neck but now he is the hero of the town. The Brewers have been getting a bang up crowd of pitching these days and it is the work of the club artists that has put Milwaukee up amongst the leaders. Any team that can take five straight from St. Paul must be playing real ball.

Washington is the surprise team of the American League. The Senators have been winning consistently throughout the season and are safely anchored in third place. At that Mr. Brade's club is not so far behind Cleveland and the Tanks. If either of the leaders break, Washington is apt to step a notch higher but it is a 2 to 1 bet that they won't walk off with the pennant. The Senators haven't been getting any too good box work from their hurling staff and the inability of Walter Johnson to keep the kinks out of his throwing arm has been a hard blow to the team.

Judge Landis is going after the baseball gamblers again. At a meeting of club owners in Pittsburgh he outlined his method of attack and the magnates pledged their support to his campaign against the betting evil. Arrests are being made often enough but it has been difficult to secure penalties in court. It is probable that the club owners will employ an array of legal lights and push every gambling arrest case to the limit.

Carpenter knows how to play to the grandstand and his diplomatic moves are gaining him more friends every day. A man wearing a uniform is welcome at the Frenchman's training camp and the Paris scrapper goes out of his way to talk a bit with the world war veterans. One thing is sure when Carpenter steps into the ring at Jersey City for the Dempsey scrap he won't want for support from his soldier friends.

A man can get a heap more satisfaction from a small chew of this class of tobacco, than he ever could get from a big chew of the old kind.

He finds it costs less, too. The good tobacco taste lasts so much longer he doesn't need to have a fresh chew nearly as often.

Any man who uses the Real Tobacco Chew will tell you that.

WINNER OF BOUT HERE TO WRESTLE FOR WORLD TITLE

Zbyszko Agrees to Meet Winner of Freeberg-Martinson Scrap in Appleton.

The winner of the John Freeberg-Paul Martinson wrestling match in Braut park here July 4 will be given a chance at the title held by Stanislaus Zbyszko, it was announced from Chicago on Tuesday. The champion has consented to meet the winner and it is very probable the bout will be held in Appleton next fall.

Freeberg had been matched to meet Steve Savage in Springfield, Ill., but the bout was called off and it is believed Freeberg will devote all his time from now until July 4 to preparing for the scrap with Martinson.

Both wrestlers have met and defeated some of the strongest men in the country. Freeberg has won from George Hill and also from Strangler Lewis. He defeated Hill here early last season and won from Lewis only a few weeks ago. Martinson also has a win over Hill but lost to the local man in their next meeting. After that bout he said Hill was one of the best wrestlers in the country.

Martinson lost a grueling match to Mahmoud, the terrible Turk, a few weeks ago. When Mahmoud was here he declared Martinson was one of the toughest men he had ever met.

There is no love lost between the men and fans here are expecting one of the greatest bouts ever held in the state. Martinson weighs about 225 pounds and Freeberg is about ten pounds heavier. Both men wrestle in their bare feet.

FACTIONAL FIGHT SPLITS HOLIEST CITY IN AMERICA

Voliva Determined to Continue Iron Handed Rule of Zion City.

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Zion City, Ill.—The holiest town in America is divided in a fierce struggle.

Opposing each other are the rival factions of Chief Overseer Wilbur Glenn Voliva and an independent group who have banded into a vigilance committee of 1,000 members.

There have been innumerable cracked heads, wholesale arrests and counter-arrests on the police by vigilantes.

Heading the vigilantes is Rev. Thomas H. Nelson, pastor of the Grace Missionary Church, whom Voliva has ordered out of town.

The vigilantes have a woman's auxiliary directed by the Misses Helen Peters, Jessie Lipp and Mary G. Wheeler. They want removal of style restrictions imposed by Voliva, with freedom to wear silk hose, sheer waists and short skirts, if they desire. The male vigilantes have this platform.

Ousting of Voliva.
State investigation of his administration of city finances.

Control of the public parks by the people.

Right to worship as they choose and recognition of property rights.

Refusal to recognize the Zion flag of gold, white and blue.

Zion City was incorporated in 1902 by John Alexander Dowie, a religious leader who settled with his followers on a tract 11 miles square.

Today the town numbers close to 6,000, half of whom profess allegiance to Voliva and have the edge on their independent neighbors by a majority of 400 voters.

Zionists Lead "Blue Law" Life

All true Zionists lead a plainly severe life. The Bible is their strict and only code.

Voliva, as successor to Dowie, is absolute dictator.

He boasts that all municipal officers "are my men, and do as I wish."

Friction started about a year ago when the independents increased their number through the arrival of new residents.

The Zionists resented what they termed "an encroachment upon holy ground by the non-believers in Zionism."

During the year they have enacted a number of blue law ordinances, all sponsored by Voliva, which prohibit smoking within the city limits.

Public use of the parks, which Voliva claims are his.

Modern dress by women including wear of short skirts.

Vaccination against communicable diseases.

Moving picture shows, dances and even sociable games of cards.

Baseball, sale of ice cream and confections and operation of restaurants on Sunday.

Operation of drug stores within the city.

Following promulgation of these edicts, the independents raised a $75,000 defense fund, and put Rev. Nelson in charge of an offensive against Voliva.

Rev. Nelson says more than $40,000 has been expended paying fines and court costs for vigilantes who ran counter to Voliva's police.

Voliva Defies His Assassins

Voliva himself, in his executive headquarters atop the Zion home where he lives with his wife and daughter, Ruth, hurled this defiance at his attackers.

"I'm ruler here! Those who do not want to obey my will, will have to get out."

"This city and every inch of its land is consecrated to God, in the name of our good leader, Dr. John Alexander Dowie, and I am his appointee to carry on the work by consent of Providence."

"These insurgents who are causing so much mischief are all poachers. The ground their homes stand on belongs to me. All their property is held under leases, and I as overseer of Zion, hold the title and fee simple to the land."

"They'll never drive us out," he continued. "Zion is an eternal city. It will always endure."
